Realizing linkages between NAPs and NDCs

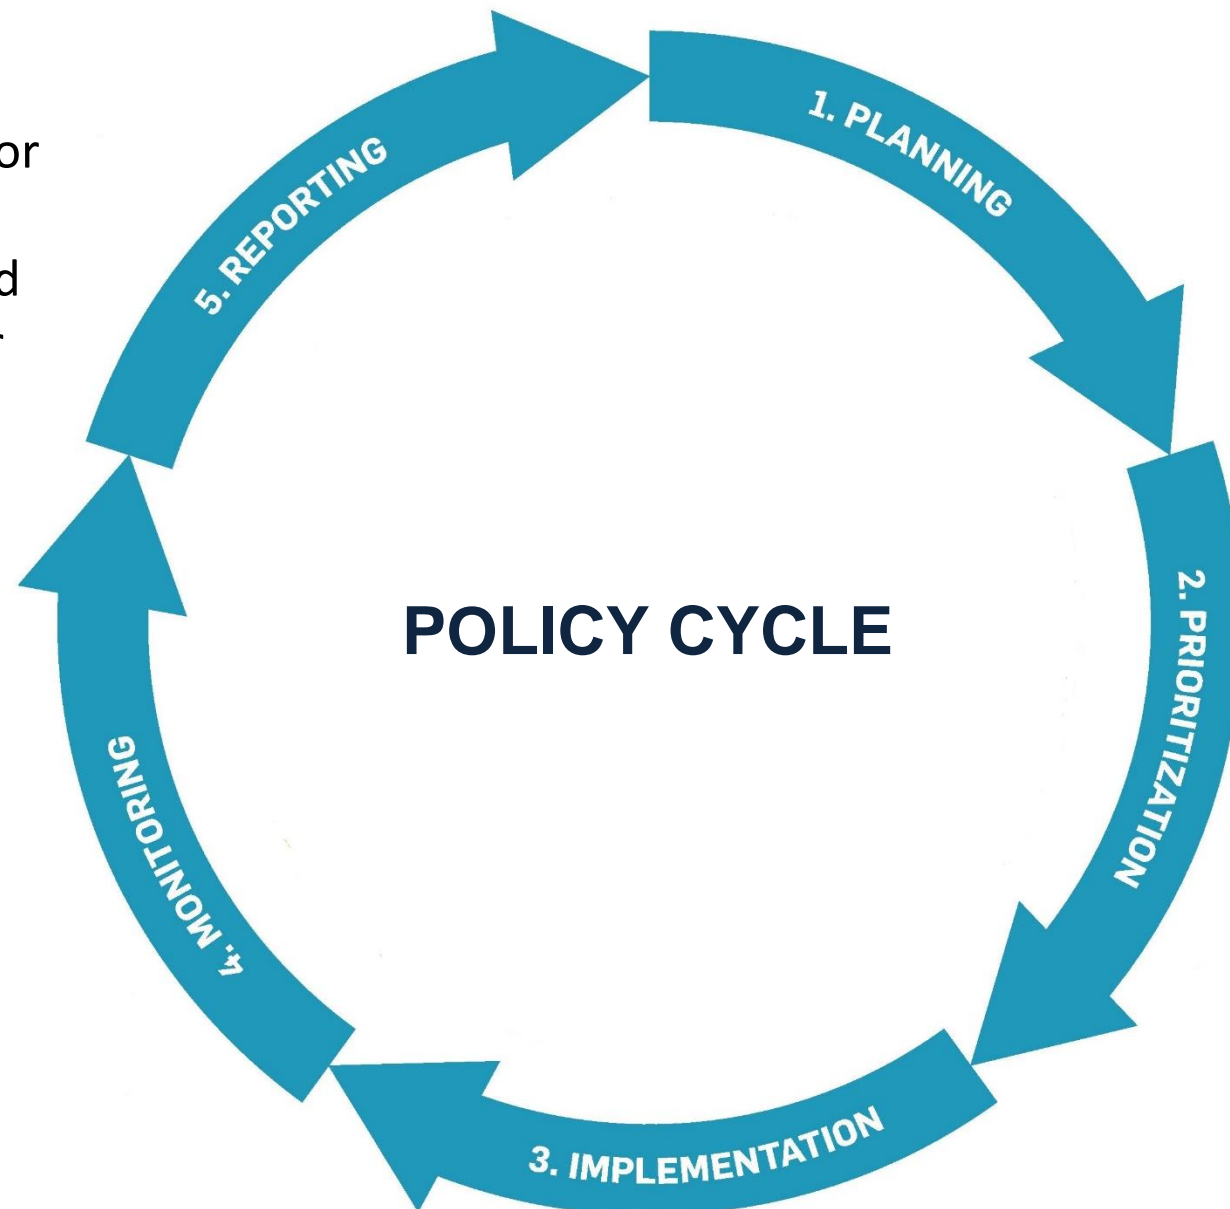

Peer Learning Summit, Bangkok
October 2, 2018

Identifying entry points for NAP-NDC linkages

Example: Establish common reporting systems by mapping out reporting requirements for the different processes (timing, content, etc.) and identify opportunities for collaboration

Example: Establish shared data, analysis and information management systems or development of an overarching M&E framework

Example: Identifying converging objectives of the NAP and NDC to demonstrate the benefits of linking the two processes

Example: Identify common criteria for prioritization across the different planning processes

Example: Current or future efforts to secure funding for implementation of one or more policy processes by mapping financing opportunities for integrated implementation

Identifying milestones and next steps

STEP 1: Brainstorming

Working in your country groups, brainstorm what are 2-3 milestones you want to achieve related to linking your NAP process with your NDC.

For example, consider:

- Our discussion on challenges and opportunities
- Policy cycle
- Stakeholder engagement processes and institutional arrangements
- Monitoring and reporting
- Financial resources

Identifying priorities and next steps

STEP 2: Identify next steps for each milestone, identify 2-3 concrete actions you could take to move toward achieving this milestone

Example:

Milestone: Shared objectives and areas of focus across the NAP process and the NDC are identified.

Actions:

- Hold a meeting to bring together lead agencies for adaptation and NDC implementation to discuss shared objectives and strategies
- Identify common cross-cutting issues, such as Linking national and sub-national planning and action and ecosystem-based approaches
- Establish ongoing coordination mechanism between agencies

Use a timeline

For each milestone, agree on a realistic timeline for putting it in place

Post the card on the timeline on the poster, in the place that corresponds to the timing you've agreed

6 month

12 months

18 months
